

Amy Bakke

Creative Director

Amy Bakke is creative director at the Stanley Center for Peace and Security, where she leads design strategy, art direction, and graphics production across all Stanley Center platforms, including its website, publications, and promotional materials. Bakke also serves as the center's in-house photographer.

Before joining the Stanley Center, Bakke served as the art director at Allen Printing and was a graphic designer at Blacks Unlimited. She also worked several years as a shadow box designer at River's Edge Gallery in Muscatine, Iowa.

Bakke has a BA in art with an emphasis in graphic design from Luther College.