

Heather Maxwell

Operations Technology Specialist

Heather Maxwell is an operations technology specialist at the Stanley Center for Peace and Security, where she provides administrative support to the vice president and director of operations and the entire operations team. She also oversees the center's on-site technical support activities.

Before joining the Stanley Center, Maxwell was an administrative assistant and help desk technician at Stanley Consultants, a learning and development coordinator at Kent Corporation, and the executive administrative assistant to the president of Iowans for Tax Relief.