

Sydney Sanchez

Operations Specialist

Sydney Sanchez is an operations specialist at the Stanley Center for Peace and Security, where she supports planning and logistics for domestic and international programming.

With experience working in multiple languages for the Recording Academy, Latin Recording Academy, BET Awards, Billboard Awards, and the Academy Awards, Sanchez ensures that center events support content-driven goals and the center's core values.

She holds an MA in global governance, politics, and security from American University as well as a BA in political science from California State University, Long Beach.